THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half way into its third year, and, whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN (Tri-weekly) together for one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

RECOGNIZED BRAND AT ONCE

How Mrs. Schofield Knew That Daughter's Husband Had Not Hitherto Been Carefree Bachelor.

Here is some inside dope on how to tell a married man. The system is made known by Mrs. Anna Schofield, who has just helped her daughter secure an annulment of her marriage as wife No. 2. Ma Schofield says marriage brands a man as plain as a hot iron on a cow's hip. When her eagle eye fell upon her new son-in-law she declares that she saw immediately where the harness had rubbed. And then she gave the formula: "Like all average married men, my son-in-law was an artistic flatterer in a way about things wives like to be lied to about. He could praise coffee that everybody knew was vile in such a way that it tasted good. Like his brother benedicts, he knew how to praise his wife's taste, whether good or bad. If a married man says something about another woman he does not neglect to say something a little nicer about his wife. That was my son-in-law. Take tears for instance. Tears break a newly and never-before-married man's heart. He gets all excited about them. But they rolled off that man's feelings like water off a duck. I kept quiet about my suspicions until one day he and daughter were quarreling. He fought like a married man. He knew when to talk and when to shut up. After that I determined to investigate his career."—New York Sun.

WAR BREAD IN USE IN ITALY

Experts Pronounce It Superior to Products of Bakeries Before the Great Conflict Began.

A war bread of the Italian bakers designed primarily to save manual labor, uses the wheat without milling. As described, its only peculiarity of appearance is a gray color, and the product of the municipal bakery at Bergamo is claimed to be highly pleasing in flavor and more nutritious than flour bread, containing a larger proportion of mineral salts, lecithin and vegetable pepsin. The sifted and washed grain is soaked in warm water for 48 to 60 hours. The germination—or vitalization—thus set up softens and modifies chemically, and when this has proceeded far enough, the grain is fed into a kneading machine. After triturating and kneading in this machine, the mass is allowed to ferment or rise, like other dough, before placing in the oven. Besides the economy in labor there is a lessening of waste, and the yield of bread from a given quantity of grain is 20 to 30 per cent or more greater than that from grain that has been made into flour. The dark and unpalatable whole-grain bread complained of in some parts of Italy is explained by an agricultural authority as probably due to inferior wheat or poor baking.

There Was a Reason.

Speaking at a dinner the other night, former Gov. Martin H. Glynn of New York said there was usually a reason for most things and told the following story as an illustration:

A colored man was rambling down one of the streets of a southern town one afternoon, when he met a friend.

"Look heah, Rastus," exclaimed the colored party, "dey tole me dat yo' done gone an' married Lilac Washington las' Sunday night."

"De news am c'rect, Jim," answered Rastus with a broad smile. "I done gone married Lilac all right."

"Am dat so?" reflectively returned the other. "Didn't yo' tell me only las' week dat yo' wasn't gwine ter marry anybody as long as yo' libed?"

"Dat's jes' what I did, Jim," admitted Rastus, "but I didn't know at de time dat I was gwine ter lose ma job." —Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Curbing Ravages of Aphids.

Announcement has been made by the United States bureau of entomology that great success has attended the efforts to combat the spinach aphid which seriously attacked the truck crops of Virginia year after year. This has been accomplished by the introduction of the spotted lady bird, which is said to have proved very effective in keeping down the aphids. The first efforts in this direction were unsuccessful, owing to the fact that there has been extensive removal of trees and underbrush, and this left no accommodations for the hibernation of the lady birds, which perished during the winter. This has now been taken care of and the ravages of the aphids greatly decreased.

Insects Spread Plant Diseases.

The Pennsylvania department of forestry has been making exhaustive investigations with a view to finding out the means of the dissemination of spores of blight fungus which are the causes of numerous tree diseases. There is evidence that insects are principally responsible for the spread of spores, although many of them are, of course, carried by the wind. The results of these investigations suggest also that the spread of other plant diseases is directly traceable to the action of insects.

Old Use of Word.

An English officer, who has been censoring Scottish soldiers' letters, has just been explaining to me that the Scotchmen are awful liars. I confessed surprise, and he gave me this example: "One of these wrote to his wife the other day that he was absolutely starving, and the fellow was having the best rations he ever got in his life." But it was only of the cold that the Jack was complaining.
